Yahoo Upgrades E-mail Service

Yahoo is revamping its e-mail service to attract people who use social media such as Facebook and Twitter. Yahoo plans to switch over its 277 million e-mail users in the next few weeks.

The upgrade, which Yahoo began testing seven months ago, will allow users to post updates for Twitter and Facebook right from their Yahoo e-mail pages. Users will also be able to send attachments of up to 100 megabytes, up from the current 25 megabytes. In addition, the new service will be faster.

Yahoo is making the changes as more and more people are flocking to Google's Gmail, which has grown to 220 million users worldwide, according to the research firm comScore. That compares with Yahoo's estimated 277 million users.

But Yahoo's e-mail service is still strong. Most of the growth of Gmail has come at the expense of Microsoft's Hotmail service, which remains the leader with 327 million users around the world, though that figure is down 27 million from last year.

Questions 34-36 refer to the following letter:

Dear Susan,

Well, it's been only six months since we graduated, but it feels like years. And I sure miss our carefree school days. Life is really hard now.

I like my new job, but, boy, is it difficult. I work 10-hour days and then have to come home and clean my apartment and do laundry and other stuff. By the time the weekend comes, I am too tired to have fun and I spend most of my free time resting.

I sure wish I had listened to you when we were in school together and learned more about computers. At my company we're expected to know how to do everything. There is no training. That means I have to come home and study more!

But I like living in the city. When I do go out, there is so much to do, from seeing concerts to visiting museums. I look forward to showing you around when you visit next month.

Love, Debby

34. What is the relationship between Susan and Debby?
 (A) They work together.
 (B) Susan works for Debby.

Questions 46-50 refer to the following e-mail messages:

FROM: kimtake@ott.com

TO: All classmates

SUBJECT: Year-end Party

We will hold a year-end party at my apartment building a week from Friday. It will be a potluck dinner with each person bringing one dish. Please reply to this e-mail telling me what you will be bringing so we don't have any repetition. Also, I am hoping we can all chip in $10 to buy a gift for our teacher. Jenny Clark is collecting the money and will buy the gift. After dinner, we will be able to play table tennis and swim at my apartment's pool, so bring swimming suits if the weather is good.

Kim

FROM: jclark@ott.com

TO: kimtake@ott.com

SUBJECT: Year-end Party

Kim,

I will be bringing a chocolate pie to the potluck dinner. As for our teacher's gift, I am buying her a gift card. Then she can go out and choose a gift for herself. Let me know if you think this is a good idea. Also, instead of swimming at the party, perhaps we could watch the movie we made in class.
